

CASE STUDY: FUSION MANAGEMENT SOLUTIONS

THE SITUATION

Fusion Management Solutions Limited was founded in 2003 to provide an extensive range of consultancy and management services, mainly to the automotive aftermarket.

Fusion realised, with an ever more competitive environment and increasingly complex compliance landscape, businesses needed to be more agile in pursuit of their goals and be similarly focused on deriving tangible benefit from implementation of strategies.

Consequently, continuing success and growth have seen Fusion develop its range of services so that it now offers an even more extensive package of solutions to all businesses, especially those in the Small and Medium Enterprise (SME) Sector.

Partnering with Neil Howard Telecoms has helped Fusion Management Solutions to work in a most efficient way and fulfil their customer needs to an even greater degree.

THE SOLUTION

After a management buyout and relocating to Blackburn, Fusion Management Solutions heard about how Neil Howard Telecoms can save money for Fusion Management Solutions.

When Neil Howard Telecoms came on board, they changed the tariff on their mobiles so that staff with a company mobile phone could call back to the office free of charge and also enjoy value for money rates nationally and internationally.

More over, Fusion Management Solutions staff started using BlackBerry and USB Modems too. As the consultants are out and about, they never miss that important email on their Blackberry and if they are on a business trip; they use the USB Modems to connect back to the office and work from anywhere.

THE RESULT

This new technology has enabled Fusion Management Solutions to:

- Save money between company callers
- Save money on national and international calls
- Work in a more efficient way with Neil Howard Telecoms data proposition
